

An Overview of Mexican History 1517-2017

Anne Staples, Ph. D.

The course will provide an understanding of the gradual processes involved in evangelization, secularization, illustration, liberalism, positivism, and the paternal State. It will view Mexico's relationship with Spain and the Vatican, with Europe and the United States, with Asia and Africa. An effort will be made to balance environmental, gender, political, social, religious, diplomatic, educational, artistic, industrial, and current history in a narrative that makes sense of 500 years of history.
