Linguistic Diversity in Mexico

Violeta Vázquez Rojas Maldonado, Ph. D.

Mexico is one of the most linguistically diverse countries in the world. According to official figures, there are 68 linguistic groups and 364 linguistic variants, all classified in 11 linguistic families, out of which four are language isolates. This course offers a linguistic and social panorama of the different languages spoken in Mexico. We will present a brief description of the most characteristic features of each linguistic family and the demographic profiles of their speaker communities.
