Presidential Elections in Comparative Perspective

Reynaldo Yunuen Ortega Ortiz, Ph. D.

The purpose of this course is to introduce the students to the general subfield of Comparative Politics, in order to study and understand the processes of presidential elections in the U.S.A. and countries like Mexico, Brazil and Argentina. This course will deal with the structure, history, and relevance of presidential elections in different countries. The course will have the structure of a seminar, consequently, every student will have to read the material of the course before coming into the class in order to have a constructive discussion of the readings.
